MARVELS AT OUR DOORS

CALIFORNIA IS FULL OF STORIES AND ARTICLES OF UNIQUE VALUE

Many of the Glendale people who have visited the Panama-Pacific exposition in San Francisco have come back full of the wonderful sights them have seen and the marvelous inventions and manufactures that attracted their attention in the various sections, native and foreign, of the gorgeous halls of the fair. Some of the ladies speak of a wonderful old blanket, faded, frayed, thin and worn, which is yet carefuly preserved under a glass case and looked on with the highest interest and respect.

This piece of ancient manufacture is woven in the most remarkable manner; nobody living can weave a blanket exactly like this. The art is lost. Delicate patterns of mystic significance and graceful design are woven into its warp and woof. These designs are highly prized. They have been photographed and sent to all the schools in the Philippine islands and may be found braided into the patterns of baskets cut in woodwork and woven into the fabrics of the Philippine school children's exhibit to the world.

One need not, however, go to the Philippines for examples of what a people can do. In California itself there are in every county of the state relics of past days that are replete in interest. There cluster round the old mines of the northern counties stories of human interest as absorbing as any that have ever been told. There are scenes of natural beauty all round the Feather river country that are unsurpassed anywhere, while Inyo county offers a mountain land that rivals Switzerland.

California has manufactured products surpassing in excellence any in the known world. California has completed and in process of construction inventions of exceptional merit. This state grows fruits and nuts that challenge competition. All round us there are many wonders of plant and animal life. In the heart of the mountains there are mines so rich in gold that their ton value is almost fabulous.

California has men and women with histories of the most thrilling kind. Not even Brete Harte could produce more heroes and heroines than may be found today under the quiet mien and unassuming life of our next door neighbor. We do not need to go far away to find the wonders and realities of life. They are wherever God's creation is and wherever men and women are.

If an old Philippine blanket can contain so many educational possibilities as to induce the United States representatives in the Philippines to preserve it with scrupulous care surely California has a thousand articles and associations that possess equally valuable educational possibilities and are deserving of being enshrined in the memories and hearts of her people. All that is human is of human interest.

ENTERTAINING PARENTS

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Beamon of 245 Maryland avenue are entertaining as their house guests Mr. and Mrs. C. H. DuBois, of Los Angeles, parents of Mrs. Beamon; Mrs. Albert Dimond and daughter, Miss Myrtle Dimond of Buffalo, N. Y., aunt and cousin of Mrs. Beamon. Following a pleasant visit with Mr. and Mrs. Beamon, and enjoying the many places of interest in this charming southland, Mrs. Dimond and Miss Dimond will visit San Diego and the Panama-California exposition. From there these visitors will visit San Francisco and the Panama-Pacific exposition and other interesting places. A visit in Spokane is also contemplated by Mrs. Dimond and daughter, who will spend six months touring this western coast.

NINTH BIRTHDAY

Miss Mary Gertrude Burch, 219 Cerritos avenue, Tropico, was honored with a charming party the afternoon of July 29, her ninth birthday anniversary. Dainty refreshments were served. The little hostess was the recipient of a number of pleasing presents in token of love and friendship. The following were among her guests: Misses Esther Jones, Mary Alice Ferry, Julia Steelman, Eleanor Bradford, Violet Benner, Pauline Flanders, Margaret Richardson, Francis Hilliss, Grace Craig, Dapple Shawl, June Goto, Maud A. Burch, Master Stewart Ayres, Mr. Roy R. Wallace, N. C. Burch and O. E. Burch of Tropico; Misses Etha Smert and Catherine Stanley, Mrs. Charles C. Stanley, Charles C. Stanley, Jr., of Los Angeles.

SIGNS OF GOOD TIMES

BUILDING BUSINESS BEGINS TO PICK UP A LITTLE, SAY MERCHANTS

In common with other Glendale business men C. E. McPeek, the well-known contracting plumber of Glendale, believes that the United States will shortly see a real revival of business. There is as yet nothing very definite on which to base this opinion; but improvement and recovery are in the air. Every one is speaking about it and saying that it is coming and that is just what constitutes the confidence necessary to create business. Confidence means credit.

Mr. McPeek, who does a considerable business in sheet metal work, as well as in large plumbing contracts, said to a representative of The Glendale Evening News yesterday: "I have been successful in getting some good contracts lately. One of them is the contract for installing the heating apparatus in San Fernando High School. The contract calls for the installation of the Rector system of gas heating. This system is specially suitable for large buildings such as the three big buildings at San Fernando High School. I am putting the system in there in the Auditorium, the Science and the Mechanical buildings. The system, as you are probably aware, gives separate radiators to each room. It is driven by a large fan which drives air to the radiators where the gas consumes it, producing great heating capacity. This heat, however, is automatically controlled by an apparatus which can be set to shut off the gas after the temperature of the room reaches a certain degree.

"I was also fortunate enough to get the contract for installing up-to-date plumbing in the toilet rooms of the Buchanan street school in Los Angeles. That school is situated out on the Garvanza car line, between 50th and 51st streets, beyond Occidental college. I am putting in a modern ventilating system there. It is a motor system. An 18-inch pipe ventilates all the toilet rooms and is connected with a utility space, where the pipes can easily be got at. Thence the ventilation is carried to the roof.

"In Glendale I am doing all the plumbing work in connection with the new Saunders' home that is being erected in Casa Verdugo. This is a new two-story residence that will be up-to-date in every particular of plumbing as we'l as in everything else. I have also the contract for the plumbing and all the sheet metal work in connection with the new, two-story Vint residence on Burchett street.

"In fact, whatever may be thought of the condition of business generally I am not complaining and I am confident that the country is on the turn of the tide."

GLENDALE'S REPRESENTATIVES OBTAIN A DRAW WITH EUROPEAN CHAMPION

Emil Kotsik, one of Europe's great chess players and the champion of Sicily, was a guest of the Los Angeles Chess club, Higgins Bldg., L. A., on the 27th of this month, and on that date he gave the first exhibition since 1892 of blindfolded chess, playing four games simultaneously with his eyes closed, and having the moves of his opponents called to him with the number of the board, and replying almost instantly with his own move.

He is the first man since the time of Phillsbury able to do this. The players contending against Kotsik were among the best in Los Angeles county and were as follows:

Board No. 1—O. U. Burnett, who is a noted Los Angeles player, and a great traveler whose ability is recognized.

Board No. 2—L'Hommede, who was the U. S. International Chess correspondent for many years and a player of note.

Board No. 3—E. R. Perry, who has held the championship of Los Angeles Co. for the last two years and noted as a great organizer and student.

Board No. 4—I. H. Pearson and Emet Croy (consulting) who are well known in Glendale, but have not previously appeared before the chess public.

Board No. 1—Kotsik wins. Burnett loses.

Board No. 2—Kotsik wins. L'Hommede loses.

Board No. 3—Kotsik loses. Perry wins.

Board No. 4—Kotsik draws. Pearson and Croy draw.

The City of Glendale is becoming a regular mecca for chess players of note, as C. H. Whipple, who won a championship, is a resident and also M. A. Woodward, Sr., who has won second place in Los Angeles county for two years, and there are a number of others.

CARING FOR CHILDREN

PACIFIC AVENUE PLAYGROUND OFFERS DAY NURSERY PRIVILEGES

About $125 in cash contributions have been made to the Pacific Avenue Playground fund, which is about one-fourth of the total amount expended on the grounds. The equal of $375 has been donated in labor, showing the interest that is being taken in this very worldly enterprize.

In addition to being a place where the children may enjoy properly supervised amusements during the day, this playground is fulfilling the function of a day nursery. In spite of the fact that the playground was formally opened only last Saturday there are already eighteen children cared for there, whose mothers are away working all day.

Mrs. Ella W. Richardson, who has been untiring in working for this enterprise, will throw open her home Saturday evening of this week for a big benefit concert and dance which many are planning to patronize both for the good of the cause and because the entertainment to be provided promises to be well worth while.

The cash contributors to the Pacific Avenue playground are: Mrs. Ella W. Richardson, T. W. Watson, Mrs. Julius Kranz, Ezra F. Parker, J. H. Braly, A. S. Chase, Mrs. F. O. Stone, J. J. McGinnis, R. A. Siple, J. F. Kuntzner, J. J. Frazer, G. W. Whitton, H. L. Miller, H. M. Miller, Schilling's, N. W. McBryde, Munson Drug Co., W. R. Phelon, D. E. Crofton, Jr., W. M. Wright, Fred Deal, E. E. TROPICO

Mr. and Mrs. Don Erskine have been entertaining at their home, "Sotoyome," on Brand boulevard, several distinguished guests, relatives of Mr. Erskine. The party, who have been enjoying the two great expositions that are the motive for so many eastern visitors coming to California, includes Dr. Mary Erskine, a noted dentist; Dr. Nettie Erskine, a prominent physician; De Witt Erskine, city attorney, and Mrs. Nina Cranmer, aunts and uncle of Mr. Erskine, and Miss Dorothy Erskine and De Mar Erskine, daughter and son of Mr. De Witt Erskine. These visitors are all from Steubenville, Ohio, and are enjoying this beautiful southland exceedingly.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Priaulx of West Park avenue, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. George Veatch of Oak Park, Ills, who are spending the summer in Southern California, motored to Santa Barbara Wednesday morning, where they will remain until this evening.

Mrs. Joseph V. Griffin and son, Jim Griffin, enjoyed Thursday in Burbank as the guests of Mrs. Geo. Reeves. Other guests who enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. Reeves were her mother, Mrs. S. L. Miller of Redlands, and her cousin, Miss Mirth Waugh of Columbia City, Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. George Friedgen of West Park avenue have been entertaining as their guests their sister, Miss Lizzie Friedgen of Connorville, Ind., and Mr and Mrs. Adam Schwenholtz, also from Connorsville. These visitors were en route from San Francisco, where they enjoyed the exposition, to San Diego, where a few days will be spent at the Panama-California exposition before returning to Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Webster and daughters, Misses Lily and Leola Webster, of West Park avenue, have returned from a delightful visit to San Diego, where they went in their automobile.

One of the most interesting visitors in Tropico the past week was John M. Ferry of Baltimore, Maryland, brother of Peter L. Ferry of East Acacia street. John Ferry is a prominent Elk of his home city and after attending and enjoying all of the festivities provided by the Los Angeles Elks at their convention, Mr. Ferry remained to visit with his brother and family. Mr. Ferry, our townsman, is also a very prominent Elk, being past exalted ruler of Glendale lodge 1289, and with his brother enjoyed the week of gaiety and pleasure. The two brothers visited San Francisco together, taking in the sights, and the Panama-Pacific exposition. Peter Ferry has returned home, while his brother proceeded on his journey, visiting Portland, Seattle and other places of interest in the northwest. Mr. Ferry will also visit Yellowstone Park while en route home.

Sir Francis and Mrs. Booth of Gardena avenue entertained with a recherche dinner party at their home Thursday evening, complimentary to Judge and Mrs. W. G. Pardoe and son, Guthrie Pardoe. A dainty golden-lined basket centered the table, from which fragrant red roses nodded. Judge and Mr. Pardoe and son leave shortly for Stroud, Okla., their former home, where they will remain indefinitely.

Miss Martha Moody arrived from her home in Connecticut Wednesday for an extended visit to her brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Moody of 307 West Cypress street.

Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Martin of San Fernado boulevard are spending a few weeks at Manhattan Beach.

LIFE IN SIBERIA

FORMER OFFICER OF CZAR TO LECTURE ON CONDITIONS IN RUSSIA

Lieutenant Metre Swartzkopensky, who was at one time a prominent officer in the Russian army, will lecture in the Congregational church, Sunday, on conditions in Russia, his own days of exile in Siberia and on the causes of the war. Lieut. Swartzkopensky served eighteen years in the Russian army and was for ten years in the czar's bodyguard. He is a graduate of the University of Petrogard, speaks English fluently and is an interesting lecturer.

Those who have interested themselves in Russian affairs will have no difficulty in remembering the agitation that shook all the czar's dominions in 1895. At that time Father Joupon, a progressive priest of the Russian church, was at the head of a movement for greater political freedom. Maxim Gorky, the Russian novelist and Socialist, was another leader. Under the guidance of these men the people in Petrograd organized a demonstration. They believed that if they could only speak face to face with the czar their cause would profit.

The reactionary advisers of the czar and the military faction misrepresented this movement to the ruler of the Russias and when the 200,000 demonstrators approached the imperial palace they were ordered to disband. They refused and command was given to the soldiers to fire on the people. Lieut. Swartzkopensky refused to transmit Gen. Trapoff's command to his men. The order was then given to the Cossacks who poured volley after volley into the mass of innocent men and women before them.

At this juncture Lieut. Swartzkopensky ordered his men to fire on the Cossacks and before the conflict was over 15,000 bodies lay in the streets. Swartzkopensky and hundreds of others were prisoners and after a short trial were on their way to Siberia. There he was ordered into solitary confinement, with chains on his waist and ankles.

One morning the lieutenant and fourteen others escaped and after terrible hardships made their way to Poland where they lived under assumed names. Lieut. Swartzkopensky tells about these adventures and about social conditions in Russia and Siberia.

He has also something interesting to tell of the great Siberian country, which offers valuable agricultural possibilities and contains in its ancient river beds and ocean beaches a wealth of gold as rich as that which Alaska yielded.

CONTROL OF CITRUS THRIPS

Congressman Charles H. Randall of Highland Park is supplying free to every citrus fruit grower a new and valuable publication under the above title. It is written by a scientist of high repute in tropical and subtropical fruit investigations. Ask the congressman for a copy.

SEVEN YEARS' RULE

CITY HAS HELD FIRM GRIP OF CRIME WITHIN ITS JURISDICTION

That there is very little serious crime in Glendale is proved by the records of the recorder's court, which shows that during the past seven years, during which the present incumbent has held office, there has been months when there was not even a single case. "That," said Judge Whomes to a representative of the Glendale Evening News yesterday, "was in the early days of my incumbency. It is seven years since I took office here. With the exception of City Engineer Lynch I am the oldest appointive officer in the city.

"For three and a half years I was recorder of Redondo Beach and during that time had ample experience of petty cases that occur in an open town. Every Monday the court room would be filled with a motley crowd of "drunks." We made short work of them there, sentencing them to the regulation $10 or ten days in record time.

"It is different in Glendale. Here such cases are rare and are usually confined to the Mexican population. Glendale is fortunately free from that large class of crimes that come from the false excitement of liquor. We have had some cases of infringement of the liquor ordinance of Glendale, and in one instance I inflicted a fine of considerable amount, but cases of that kind are also rare.

"When I was appointed recorder Glendale had 2700 inhabitants. At that time the city hall was a single room across from the sanitarium. There all the city's officials had to conduct their business as best they could. Sometimes I would have one case in a month; sometimes one in three months. As the city has grown in population the recorder's office has grown in importance and the number of cases tried has increased considerably. During the seven years I have held office I have tried 830 cases and have turned into the city treasury about $4500.

"In the days when the city's regulations concerning automobile speeding were duly enforced the income from that source was considerable. Now there is no enforcement of the speed laws and the consequence is that the city's income from that source has ceased.

"Most of the small amount of crime in the city comes from the Mexican population and consists of petty crimes, such at petty theft, drunkenness and breach of the peace. Glendale is a city of high standards and its citizens need very little regulating as they are law observing in the highest degree.

"After the new city hall was built the recorder's court was moved over there and remained in that building until July 1, 1914, when it was moved down to the firehouse. It is now proposed to move it back to the city hall.

THE TIME IT TAKES TO MAKE READY

The government small arms factories have maximum productive power of 1,500 rifles a day and the private concerns at New Haven and Ilion of 1,000 a day or in all a million a year.

It takes three months to make a machine gun and four to make a field gun or howitzer.

American munition plants can turn out 30,000,000 rifle cartridges a week. In fact they are doing it. The war department has 180,000,000 cartridges on hand.

It takes three months to make a shrapnel shell. The task is in the manufacture of the fuse. This requires expert workmanship.

It takes six months to make a torpedo, the submarine's weapon, and the cost is $8,500. The projectiles must be tested with great care.

It takes only two or three weeks to make an areoplane. It takes longer, however, to train aviators to run them. It takes six months to make a soldier out of a raw recruit.

PRESENTS OF FRUIT

Mrs. L. S. Jenkins of 130 S. Glendale avenue, who has been presenting a number of her friends with beautiful baskets of fruit, yesterday presented Mrs. Adelaide H. Imler, president of N. P. Banks W. R. C. a beautiful basket of fine lemon cling peaches. To be sure the basket did not contain many, but the quality was excellent and the size something beyond the ordinary for the peaches weighed 12 ounces each and each measured 11 inches in circumference, thus fourteen peaches filled a basket. The peach orchard at the Jenkins' home attracts many visitors, for the branches are laden with these superior and excellently flavored fruit.

SENIOR DOUBLES OVER

CRANDALL AND BALTHIS WIN BY WONDERFUL PLACING GAME

Nothing could stop the wonderful progress of Crandall and Balthis in the Senior Doubles and those two remarkable players crowned their long and clever campaign by winning the prizes for that event. There were other clever players in the opposing couples, but their efforts were of no avail against the steady defense and the skillful attack of the two boys who have come out winners. The nearest any of their opponents ever came to winning was when Lehman and his partner held them to a deuce set.

Billy Balthis is undoubtedly the coolest and steadiest young player this section has ever produced. Nothing seems to affect his nerve and he never misses. He completely frustrates his opponents' efforts by skilfully placing the ball at the exact spot where it is impossible to make a return. In the senior singles Billy won first prize. Some of his opponents say that Balthis does not win, but waits until his opponent loses. This is unfair criticism, but it really amounts to saying that Billy wins by means of his head.

The Junior doubles will be played off Monday and Tuesday. The court will be turned over to them entirely on Monday and every boy who wishes to take an active part in the game is counseled to be there.

The Junior singles have reached the finals with Hollis Moyse and Russell Clark running each other close for the prize. Morse Preeman won second prize in the senior singles.

Mrs. Carrie Murphy of West Twenty-ninth street, Los Angeles, was in North Glendale Wednesday looking after her property interests on Ruth street.

Mrs. S. C. Corwin of 419 North Central avenue entertained as her house guests during the past week Mrs. L. Williams and Mrs. George Ferguson of Ann Arbor, Mich., who are touring California, much of their time being spent with relatives and friends in Los Angeles and vicinity.

Miss Maude Soper of 1305 North Maryland avenue is expected home from Berkeley, Cal., next Tuesday, where she has been attending summer school, also enjoying the exposition in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lockwood, 711 North Louise street, will motor to Covina this evening and will bring back with them Mr. Lockwood's mother, Mrs. M. L. Lockwood, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. S. G. Topliff of Lark Ellen avenue, for some time.

Sunday morning, August 1, the Rev. Dr. Crouch, who for many years has been working among the Yuma Indians in Arizona, will speak at the Casa Verdugo M. E. church, giving an account of the conditions and work done among the Indians there. All who will have the privilege of hearing Dr. Crouch will enjoy a treat for he is a delightfully interesting speaker, and a cordial invitation is extended to all to come and hear him.

WATERMELON FEED WELL ATTENDED

Thursday night about thirty of the Glendale young folks attended a watermelon feed at Echo park.

The feed was given by the Baraca class of the First M. E. church. After rowing to their heart's content they gathered around the picnic table and got their fill of melons.

The party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Tower, chaperones; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Starkey, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Matthiesen, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tarr, Messrs. Dr. Lusby, Ralph H. Lusby, Harry Francy, Odin Askeland, Will Johnson, Frank Butterfield, Riley Proctor, Mark Francy, Lloyd Wilson, Arthur Matthiesen, and the Misses Lois Spickerman, Gertrude Wilson Blanche Thede, Barbara Askeland, Jennie Lacy, Edna Learned, Ruth Pierce, Esther Andrae.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, JULY 30, 1915

AMERICAN BUSINESS OUTLOOK

It is an ill wind that blows nobody good. A worse tempest than the war in Europe it would be hard to conceive; yet to the United States it has blown nothing but prosperity. Whatever may be said as to American goods being held up in Europe the fact remains that business in the United States has increased to such an extent that this country has a trade balance in its favor of more than one billion dollars. This balance, too, is constantly increasing.

Foodstuffs, war munitions, mules, horses, clothing, shoes and a hundred other articles of commerce are in constant and enormous demand on the other side of the Atlantic to the immense benefit of this country. Had it not been for this increased business it is doubtful if the United States would not have had a worse state of business stagnation than it has ever experienced. The growth of general business has been steady. There is a constant growing belief that better times are at hand and that even after the war is over there will be a continuation of this prosperity that is now making its presence felt.

With record-breaking crops, an increasing purchase of the United States' metal product and a wonderful abundance of money in this country nothing but prosperity would be expected. It appears as though this country were specially favored in these days of international disaster. Of all the countries on the face of the earth the United States alone has been preserved from the depression that inevitably accompanies war.

Countries like Austria that were beginning to show the results of long peace in better conditions and larger trade balances are now contemplating ruefully large decreases in the volume of their foreign business. The Argentine Republic that in normal times has been an excellent customer of Europe shows a falling off in imports of about 48 per cent. It would seem as though this were the opportunity of the United States had not past legislation driven our merchant ships from the high seas and recent marine laws and regulations put the finishing touch on those sad conditions by threatening to drive the last remnant of our steamship business from the Pacific.

RUSSIA'S GALLANT STAND

In the midst of all the praise that is being given to the big battalions that are trying to batter their way to Warsaw, it is well also to give what commendation is due to the ill-equipped army that is so nobly and courageously resisting them. Russia, in the mouth of the ready critic, has always been discounted as defeated; but still the long drawn out lines of the czar's men are holding on the entrenchments that bar the way to the capital of Russian Poland.

As a matter of fact Russia has been all along defending her own territory invaded by a foe that was entrenched on its own frontier in anticipation of a war long prepared for. It has never been an easy matter to invade Russia, as the first Napoleon discovered. The enormous extent of the land, its severe winters, its devoted and fanatical population, ready to burn their cities rather than yield them to an enemy, has made it a matter of enormous difficulty to inflict any lasting defeat on the great nation of northern Europe. Thus it can readily be seen that it is too early to make dogmatic statements to the effect that Russia is defeated and that she will soon be out of the war.

CRIMINAL DESTRUCTION OF FOOD

What a vile thing is war! It is only those who have never seen the clash of nations in arms who profess to see anything noble or picturesque in the "confusion and garments rolled in blood" that prevail on the modern battlefield. There is not much valor in torpedoing an unarmed merchant ship or sending an innocent passenger vessel to the bottom with its human freight.

Hence it is not astonishing to see that principle carried out in the wholesale destruction of food stuffs on the narrow seas about Europe. It does not matter who destroyed them. The outstanding sin and shame is the fact that when wretched humanity all over the world is starving for lack of sufficient nutriment, armed vessels creep up on unarmed and send them to the bottom with the food that would feed millions and keep nations from perishing.

This is a crime that will certainly some day bring its own punishment. If the maxim "Waste not, want not" is a good principle to teach to our children it is just as strong a principle to insist on in the case of nations. Nations that can calmly send a cargo of wheat or flour to the bottom of the ocean while starving men, women and children are lifting up despairing hands for sustenance that cannot be given them are deserving of the utmost condemnation.

The only hope for the world in all this welter of blood, lust, rage, brutal cruelty and destruction is that humanity may become sick of it, cease cutting the throats of each other and sweep away the old systems out of which all this misery has arisen.

Most of the counties in California maintain county libraries at considerable expense. It is now very properly decreed by a senate bill that these libraries shall be placed at the disposal of high school pupils throughout the county. Nothing could be of more value to the high schools than this privilege. When there is added to it wise direction and instruction as to proper courses of reading in connection with the various sections of the curriculum vast good may be accomplished in the direction of wide mental training of the students. "Reading," as old Fuller said, "maketh a full man." It widens the mental horizon as nothing else can do except travel. It rubs off provincialism, conceit and bigotry and makes the students ready for all knowledge.

EXPOSITION CROWDS INCREASE

SAN DIEGO, July 28.—The month of July has given attendance at the San Diego exposition a remarkable boost, the daily average for the first 20 days of July being an increase of more than 78% over the daily average for June.

Exposition directors were rignly gratified when the June attendance ran up to 166,135 with a daily average of 5537. Now the first 20 days of July have recorded an attendance of 197,381, a daily average of 9869 and the prospect is that the daily attendance will continue to mount.

Visitors from the east, and particularly the middle west, say the travel to the exposition has only begun from the chiefly agricultural states while from everywhere the summer vacationists are just beginning to get away in conspicuous numbers. Families are now ready to leave with their children, the school vacation plans being made. Governor Arthur Capper of Kansas, who is resting several days here, reports that thousands, perhaps tens of thousons, are getting ready to come now as their wheat and other crops are out of the way.

Thousands of visitors returning to their homes are carrying word that the visit is one that should not be missed with far greater effect than any printed publicity could carry and with this message goes the first-hand promise of a world of pleasure side from the exposition. Fine surf bathing at the beaches, water bathing in San Diego bay, surf and deep-water fishing, boating, sailing, all are right at hand, and the range of such sports as the polo summer season at the Coronado Country club, yacht racing, golf, tennis, trapshooting, etc., are all within a few minutes' ride of the exposition grounds.

CLAIM MORMON BOOK A FAKE

Leaders of the Mormon church are said to be suffering from a severe shock to their faith, as a result of the translation of certain sacred records preserved in Salt Lake City. These records purported to be the original Egyptian inscriptions constituting the "Book of Abraham," written down by his own hand upon papyrus, and found and translated by Joseph Smith.

Recently the Mormon leaders were persuaded to let Egyptian scholars examine the inscriptions. The Mormons acquiesced, feeling sure that the authenticity of the work would be established, and thus the world might be converted to Mormonism. The Egyptologists reported that they were not written upon papyrus at all, but upon small tablets of clay which the Egyptians placed as cushions under the heads of their mummies. Moreover, there wasn't a word about Abraham in the inscriptions. They were merely heathen prayers to the Egyptian sun god.

"So," reports Prof. Banks, an archeologist, in the Christian Herald, "instead of verifying Smith's translation, the scholars presented to the world scientific absolute proof that Joseph Smith was not inspired to translate the inscriptions, that his alleged translation was purely imaginary, and that the 'Book of Abraham' was not a translation of the inscriptions at all.

"At the time Smith's 'translation' was made, no man could prove that it was not correct, for the hieroglyphs could not then be read; but now they are as easily read by scholars as the pages of an English book."

All of which goes to show that when men are inspired to write Bibles they had better bury all incriminating evidence.

Criminal negligence on the part of somebody caused the Eastland disaster. The identity of the negligent person or persons should be determined and the criminal courts should deal with the case.

The Panama canal is in operation, let us remember, and is doing the world a great deal of good, in expediting useful commerce, and thus is offsetting some of the horrors of the great war.

The safe control and native good sense of the American people carry them safely through many an international crisis with no irreparable breach with any country.

Recent floods in China resulted in deaths by tens of thousands. But tens of thousands may drown and not be missed from a population of four hundred millions.

What the schools teach should be taught thoroughly. The habit of thoroughness is one of the best that children may attain from school training.

California climate is conducive of open-air living. There is no living quite so healthful, normal and complete as living in the open.

The airmen can never hope to be influential enough to bring about the repeal or amendment of the law of gravitation.

Berlin editors lament the tone of the Wilson note. Perhaps they had thought the document would be written with a pen dipped in soothing syrup.

Thanks to a stupid and opaque censorship, the only real knowledge as to what the English army has done, comes through reading the casualty statistics.

A SNAKE STORY

With a huge rattlesnake in his lap Don Scott of Pomona fought a battle for his life in the hills beyond Live Oak canyon Monday afternoon. He had ridden to his pasture to look after some stock and was attacked by the snake before he reached the cattle.

He was riding along the cowpath when he heard a warning rattle near at hand. Stopping his horse he leaped from his saddle to find the snake and kill it, but as he did so he was attacked by another rattler which struck at him and caught its fangs in his heavy riding boot, on the calf of the leg.

Springing suddenly to avoid the blow, Mr. Scott fell over backward, kicking up his heels and tossing the rattler into his lap. Its fangs held to his boot, however, and he managed to get away from it by rolling around. Ten it coiled up and began striking at Mr. Scott before he could get up and to protect himself he held up the sole of one shoe to break its blow each time the snake struck. After considerable difficulty he managed to regain his feet and kill the reptile.

That the American people are well-balanced has been demonstrated over and over again during the last year. It has been a twelve months of unparalled tension and delicacy of situation. But this people has come through it in masterly manner, without warlike clash with any nation or people and with the respect of all nations, both belligerent and neutral.

Let the British government consider the possibility of an embargo on all American shipments. Not probable, but worth thinking about.

CHILE SAUCE RECIPES

The following recipes will be found useful in preparing a popular and economical sauce:

Recipe No. 1

Scald and peel sound, ripe, red tomatoes. Chop into small pieces by pressing through a half-inch screen or by running through a coarse meat chopper—

36 pounds of tomatoes.
2 pounds of chopped onions.
10 ounces of ripe bullnose peppers (after stems and seeds have been removed).

The bullnose peppers should be hot enough to give the proper flavor to the sauce. In case they are too mild a small amount of cayenne should be added. A pound of the large sweet, or Chinese, peppers, if they can be had, will also add richness and color. Put into a graniteware or enameled kettle and concentrate to 18 pounds. Because of the tendency to settle on the bottom of the kettle and burn, it is a good plan to allow the tomatoes to stand for a few minutes after chopping, during which time considerable juice will separate out. This can be poured off and placed in the kettle and concentrated before the rest of the above ingredients are added. After concentrating to 18 pounds, add 2¼ pounds of cider vinegar and 9 ounces of salt.

Concentrate further to 18½ pounds and add 6 pounds of sugar. Boil slowly 5 to 10 minutes. Put into jars that have been washed in boiling water and seal while hot. The above quantity will yield about 23 pounds, or sufficient to fill 18 to 20 pint jars.

Throughout the boiling care must be exercised by stirring to keep the ingredients from settling to the bottom and burning. This is especially necessary after the sugar is added. In order to weigh the contents of the kettle at different stages in the process of concentrating, the weight of the empty kettle should be noted at the start. The kettle, with its contents, can then be set on the scales or hung on the balance from time to time without inconvenience, and the weight of the contents easily determined. This sauce is not likely to mold; but, as a precaution against spoling, it is advisable—after filling the jars and putting on the rubbers and tops—to place them in the clothes boiler and sterilize them for about 30 minutes. If this sauce is properly made it will have a bright red color and a rather mild and sweet taste. It is delicious when served with meats, oysters, baked beans, etc.

Recipe No. 2

For those wishing a sauce not quite so sweet, but more on the order of a pickle, the following recipe will be found satisfactory: Scald and peel 24 ripe tomatoes; chop these up with 2 red bullnose peppers, 2 green bullnose peppers and 2 large green onions. Put into a saucepan and add:

4 cups of vinegar.
1½ cups of brown sugar.
2 level tablespoonfuls of salt.
2 level teaspoonfuls of whole allspice.
2 level teaspoonfuls of whole cloves.
2 level teaspoonfuls of cinnamon.
2 level teaspoonfuls of ground ginger.
2 level teaspoonfuls of ground nutmeg.

Bring to a boil, stirring frequently to prevent scorching, and boil until the sauce begins to thicken. The onions will then be well done. This should not take over an hour. Remove the vessel from the stove, put the sauce into jars, and seal while hot. This will keep in a wide-mouthed bottle if it is well corked and dipped in paraffin.

KATYDIDS IN ORANGE GROVES

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 31.—Spraying with arsenate of zinc or arsenate of lead is recommended by the United States department of agriculture as a weapon against the katydids which are doing an increasing amount of damage each year to the oranges groves in the San Jacinto valley of California. There are at the present time 43,000 acres of land in the valley devoted exclusively to the cultivation of citrus fruits and most of this great acreage has been planted in the last 15 years. What was formerly a semi-arid grain-growing area has been transformed into an irrigated fruit-growing area and this transformation brought into prominence certain insects which were formerly obscure and scarcely noticed.

Among the most important of these is the fork-tailed katydid. The angular-winged katydid, which closely resembles the fork-tailed species and is associated with it in orange groves, does much less damage than the latter insect. Both can be controlled by the same methods. The young of the fork-tailed katydid are found actively feeding on orange trees at about the time when the trees begin to lose their petals. The insect sometimes attacks the blossom buds, gnawing a hole through the petals to reach the pistil and ovary. Quantities of the immature fruit destroyed in this way are frequently found on the ground when the infestation is at all serious. Oranges which have been only slightly chewed when small remain and ripen on the tree, but they are quite unfit for shipment and have to be thrown out. At picking time fruit damaged in this way may be found to have clean-cut circular holes in the rind which vary from the size of a 10-cent piece to that of a silver dollar.

The amount of damage done in this way has been known to run to more than 50 per cent of the mature fruit, excluding the undeveloped oranges which fall to the ground. In 1912 several orchards lost a full fourth of their crop and in the same year an examination of 53 orchards of Washington navel oranges showed only 3 entirely free from injury from this source. In 3 of the others the injury amounted to less than 1 per cent and in the remainder ranged from 1 per cent to 39 per cent of the mature crop. In one 6-acre tract of young navel trees a hundred boxes or oranges were discarded because of injury from katydids. Eight hundred boxes of good oranges were picked from the same plat, so that the loss in the mature crop amounted to 11 per cent in addition to the young fruits and blossoms which might have matured had the katydids not been present.

Spraying, to be effective, must be done while the insects are still young. In a new publication of the Unied States department of agriculture, Bulletin No. 256, two applications of arsenite of zinc at the rate of 2 pounds per 100 gallons of water, or else two applications of arsenate of lead at the rate of 4 pounds per hundred gallons, are recommended. The first application should be made at the latest immediately after most of the petals have fallen, and the second application from 10 days to 2 weeks later. If there is an infestation of citrus thripps as well as of katydids, lime sulphur should be added to the spray at the rate of 2 gallons per hundred. A third application of lime sulphur only of the same strength should be made about 2 or 3 weeks after the second spraying for the katydids. It has been estimated that the cost of spraying should not exceed, with careful management, $5 per acre.

In the last analysis, the price of peace is likely to be reckoned in dollars and cents and not in pounds, markes, rubles or francs.

USEFUL SLANG

Slang sometimes serves a useful purpose. Just now it is vitalizing two expressions that have become painfully common, says the Santa Monica Outlook. "A well known citizen of Santa Monica," a phrase that crops out day after day, is the bane of the young reporter. He feels forced to use it again and again, realizing all the time that it is often more or less meaningless and always flat and flavorless. Now comes the slang artist and gives it new life, with a facetious twist like this: "The well known mayor," or "Nero was playing his well known fiddle while Rome burned.' If the slang expert wants to lay on the highest praise that can be given a reporter for instance he says: That boy's a 'regular' reporter."

Thus do we owe a real debt of gratitude to the slangologist.

"Oh, would some power the gift to gie us" to see our words as others see them and then to help us put the "well known" punch were it hasn't been for lo, these many decades.

MALARIA IN CALIFORNIA

Nearly three-fourths of all deaths from malaria during the years 1909 to 1914, inclusive, occurred in the great interior valleys of the state, the Sacramento and the San Joaquin. The reason for this is found in the fact that the climatic and topographical conditions of the interior favor the breeding of mosquitoes, certain species of which are the only known agents capable of transmitting the disease. The climatic conditions of the interior valleys also favor the life of the malarial parasite, which is very susceptible to cold. The great rivers and irrigation systems and the adjacent undrained districts furnish the slowly moving or standing water which is necessary for the breeding of the insects.

In the larger cities of the state, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Oakland, there were comparatively few deaths from the disease. During the years 1909 to 1914, inclusive, less than twenty per cent of all deaths from malaria occurred in those cities, and it is probable that detailed investigations would indicate that practically all of these deaths were of persons who had contracted malaria while residing in the interior valleys and who had come to the large cities for treatment or change of climate. In all of the remaining portion of the state there were hardly enough deaths from malaria to be of any consequence and it is probable that they were in persons who had contracted the disease in other parts of the state than those in which they died.

It will thus be seen that malaria mortality is first of all a local problem in California. The area in which deaths from malaria occur is almost infinitesimal in comparison with the area of the state. It follows that the eradication of mosquitoes is essentially a local problem. Anti-mosquito campaigns have been conducted in various localities, especially in Butte, Shasta, Placer, Kern and Tehama counties. It will be noted that in Butte county for the years 1909, 1910 and 1911, there were forty-three deaths as against eighteen deaths for the three years following. A large amount of work in eradication of mosquitoes was accomplished there in 1911, the result showing immediately in the death rate for the years following. During the three years prior to the campaign in Kern county, there were thirteen deaths, while there have been only eight deaths since then. In Placer county, before the campaign, there were fifteen deaths, with only six deaths since then. Like results were obtained in Tehama county, as well as in Shasta county.

In comparison with the records of these regions where organized attempts in eradication have been conducted, the statistics for those counties which have made no campaigns of the sort should be noted. In Fresno county the number of deaths for each year have been about equal. The same is true of Amador, Kern, Kings, Merced, Sacramento, Stanislaus, Tulare, Yolo, and Yuba counties.

During the past six years there have been more deaths from malaria in Butte county than in any other county of the state, Sacramento county coming second. San Francisco and Los Angeles are next, then Shasta, Tehama, San Joaquin, Placer, Kern and the rest of the San Joaquin and Sacramento valley counties following. The only counties in which there have been no deaths from malaria in the past six years are Alpine, Del Norte, Lake, Marin, Modoc, Mono and Riverside.

A TIME FOR CALMNESS

When the war started in Europe, President Wilson counseled the citizens of this country to refrain from discussion; to remember the many elements from European sources entering into the social fabric of this country. The advice was good when given, and it is just as good now. A much more critical time has come than that which inspired executive utterance. The plain truth is that the situation is not to be bettered by debate that almost as a matter of course assumes a violent phase. It is not the duty of any American to fight the battles of distant lands, even though one of these lands chance to be the place of his birth. His simple duty is to hold up the hands of the administration, and to attend to the business of being an American. It is impossible for the people of this country to get the point of view either of Berlin or London. The policy both of Germany and England strikes him as arrogant and indefensible. Certainly it is pursued without regard to any law heretofore binding, and wholly without consideration for the rights of neutrals. Americans, being neutrals, have a license to resent the flagrant misconduct of the belligerents towards them. Indeed, they could not avoid having an opinion, and the right to express this opinion they consider inviolate. This is not the sort of discussion inhibited by courtesy. The objectionable practice is in assuming the attitude, on American soil, either of the German or the English, or of any other factor in the conflict, and then in defending the favorite, not so much against its real foes, as against the American sentiment that would rebuke and curb alike every offender of its dignity and trespasser upon its reasonable privileges. — Pasadena News.

MOON SIGNS

The moon plays an important part in sign telling. I know several old ladies who regulate all their household affairs and even the conduct of life, by this luminary. All kinds of weather hang upon the changes of the moon. As a matter of fact, you and I rather like to see the new moon over the right shoulder. To be sure we have no faith in the baneful influence of this sign. Still it is just as well to be cautious about offending her ladyship. Farmers study the shape of the new moon to determine if the month is to be wet or dry. The Indians used to say that if you could hang a powder horn upon the curve of the new moon the month would be generally pleasant. A circle about the moon means a storm approaching. The number of stars within the circle tell the number of days which will elapse before the storm begins. Farmers tell about planting corn in the old of the moon.—Margaret Woodward in Countryside Magazine.

FRUIT NOTES

In the big prune orchards at Banning the trees are heavily loaded. The early plums are rope already, but it will be a month and a half before the big crop will be ready to handle. Indications are that the prunes will bring a good price this year.

One lemon orchard at Corona, Riverside county, has a section containing over seven acres covered with tobacco cloth. The installation of this feature of lemon growing costs in excess of $400 per acre. Growers are watching with interest the results obtained by this large expense.

Fumigation for the control of the gray scale, the first of which was begun last season, was started for the present year in the Lindsay district. Within the week it is stated that more than 500 tents will be in use putting cyanide fumes on the citrus trees. It is estimated the work will cost $100,000 this year.

Sixteen of the 58 counties of the state raise practically all of the almonds, apples, apricots, cherries, figs, lemons, olives, oranges, peaches, pears, prunes and walnuts in California, according to statistics compiled by George Weldon, chief deputy state horticultural commissioner. Fresno leads in peaches and figs and San Bernardino in oranges.

The California Central Creamery company will build a plant at McFarland at once. Local dairymen have signed a joint note for the cost of building and equipping the creamery. The company will operate it five years on a rental basis, and the note will have been paid for by that time by a tax on the butter fat. This factory is to replace the one destroyed by fire several weeks ago.

Marking the development of the citrus districts of the northern portion of the county to a commercial importance the Northern Tulare County Citrus association was formed by orange growers of the Alta district with the election of C. C. Threlkeld, local banker, as president, and E. C. Scruggs, secretary and manager. Work has started on the construction of a packing house at Sultana Station.

Contracts have been let by the Foothill Packing company for the erection of what will be one of the best equipped orange packing plants in California. The chief feature of the machine installation in the plant will be the new automatic machinery which will obviate any handling of oranges except that of the packers. Conveyors will take the oranges to the graders and will load the packed fruit into the cars. This will make a large saving in handling costs.

A new field for the shipping of Imperial valley grapes has been opened up, says the Brawley News, by the recent experiment of sending a drum of Persian 21's to Chicago by local express without refrigeration, the grapes being packed in a drum filled with redwood sawdust.

According to a telegram received from Chicago the 30 pounds of grapes sold for $15. They arrived in good season. Charles Ballance of El Centro was the grower and I. D. Hale the shipper, the drum being prepared under the direction of Industrial Agent Tom Elliott of the Wells Fargo company.

The Chicago shipment from the valley, consisting of 30 pounds of grapes, carried in addition to the weight the drum and sawdust, the total weight aggregating 50 pounds. The express to Chicago was $1.82.

An interesting attraction of the Coachella valley is the date industry, which is fast becoming one of the most important in America. From the experiments already successfully carried out by the government in this section it has been conclusively shown that the Coachella valley is the only section of America where the raising and marketing of dates on a commercial basis is possible. So important has this industry become within the past few years that it has been brought to the attention of congress, in view of securing substantial appropriations for the further development. Two important experimental stations for the development of the date industry are maintained in the valley under the supervision of the department of agriculture. One of these is located at Mecca, adjoining the 2000-acre subdivision of the Mecca Development company that has only recently been placed on the market.——Pacific Fruit World.

Suppose somebody had prophesied in 1880 that by 1915 tens of thousands of automobiles would be plying the streets and highways of this land —such persons would have been regarded as fantastic visionaire whose mind might be a bit warped.
